ARTIST: Doris Zacho, Chisago City

Doris is the parks programmer for Chisago City. She helps foster a sense of culture, belonging, health and wellness for citizens through the preservation, creation, and management of park spaces throughout neighborhoods within the city. Doris works with several outreach programs, and loves to create fun activities for small children. She helps plan special events and festivals, and schedules staffing for the outdoor ice rink in the winter.

Doris is an interior design student and loves art in any medium. She has experience with painting and design as well as sketching. She and her husband have three children who grew up in Chisago Lakes. Doris and her family have been instrumental in the preservation and restoration of Camp Ojiketa Regional Park in Chisago City, formerly a Campfire Girls camp for several decades. Her quilt design reflects the history and heritage of the park, with canoeing, kayaking, hiking, and many other forms of outdoor fun!
